

I just want to tell you that I have recently gotten six phone calls from people wanted to ask me some questions for a survey and they call very late and night and my husband works very early in the morning and needs to get to sleep early and these stupid phone calls are driving us crazy. I tell them to put us on the list to not call us again and they still did. I told them again and they have seemed to stop but still if you over turn this law we will be forced to give up our home phone just so we won't be bothered by these calls.
